Standby and cancellation fees

The standby fee charged for any time spent waiting idle in connection with an examination service is EUR 250 at the start of each new hour.

Upon the request of the client, it is also possible for the assessor to remain on the vessel until mooring at port or for disembarkation to another vessel. The assessor's waiting time aboard the vessel is always agreed on in advance.

A fee for cancellation of a commissioned examination service will be charged from the client if the cancellation is made less than 48 hours before the confirmed starting time of the service. The cancellation fee is equivalent to the basic service or examination fee.

Travel and transport costs

Travel costs related to the examination services are determined on the basis of the time used for actual travel. Travel costs are invoiced if the travel time for an assessment required for the examination process exceeds three hours. A fee of EUR 300 will be invoiced at the start of each day of travel.

If the examination service on the vessel is carried out at a time other than in connection with pilotage, the costs of transporting the assessing pilot will be charged in accordance with the valid transport service prices.

Background

The fee for the examination is determined by the costs incurred for the provision of the service and to allow for a reasonable profit. The pilotage company's prices are determined by its Board of Directors. Section 54 of the Pilotage Act states the following regarding the pricing of the assessment of examinations:

The person assessing the examinations may charge a fee based on a fixed unit price for assessing the examinations specified in this Act. If the trends concerning the pricing for assessing the examination indicate that the fees charged for the examinations are not reasonable, the Finnish Transport and Communications Agency may determine a maximum price for them. A reasonable price is a price that is reasonable considering the cost incurred by an efficient operator for providing the service. The maximum price shall be cost-based so that it includes a reasonable return. The maximum price can be set for a maximum of one year at a time.

PRICES FOR TRANSPORT SERVICES AS OF 1 July 2025

Background

Finnpilot's special assignment limits the company's possibilities to provide transport services. The company can offer transport by boat in situations where the transportation need is related to the provision of pilotage services or the maintenance of the company's operations. In such transport situations, other personnel can be transported in addition to the company's own personnel. In unclear situations, the decision regarding the provision of the transport service is made by the Chief Operating Officer.

Insurance

Insuring employees and property is always primarily the employer's responsibility. However, Finnpiilot's liability insurance covers all persons and baggage being transported by its boats in accordance with the requirements of the Maritime Act.

Paid transport

A fee will also be charged for any transport service that is needed at a time when Finnpiilot does not otherwise have a need for any transport run for the purposes of its own operations. The company's boat transport guidelines specify for whom and in which situations such transport services can be provided. Paid transports are always agreed on separately and require a transport contract.

The price of the transport service is also applicable when the pilotage assignment requires the transport of the pilot elsewhere than to or from a piloting boarding position.

Price of the transport service

The price of the transport service is EUR 350 for each new hour (minimum fee of one hour). After that, there will be a charge for each new half-hour. The transport time shall include a half hour for the preparation of the necessary machinery.

Value-added tax is added to the prices for transport services in accordance with the valid provisions of the Value Added Tax Act.
